It is reported from Washington that President Roosevelt has been persuaded to equip himself with a hip pocket artillery annex, to be prepared in case of emergency.

A Philadelphia "blind" street beggar was arrested a few days ago for scorching on a bicycle. The witness against him was another "blind" beggar, who saw him.

The Ameer of Afghanistan has started on the work of reform by discharging all but four of his wives. But this may be a mere economizing scheme. He has also issued an order forbidding any of his subjects having more than four wives.

In two divorce cases in Morristown, N. J., on the ground of desertion, the men pleaded that their mothers in-law made home too hot for them. But that plea didn't count with the Judge, who held that a man had no right to run away from his family to get away from his mother-in-law. That's the way he laid down the law.

HIGH PRICES FOR ROSIN.

Good Strained Will Bring $2 Per Barrel. Recent Loss of Two Wilmington Cargoes—Other Shipping News.

On the local market yesterday rosin reached the highest price in 30 years, according to a well known factor. The quotations were $1.95 for strained and $2.00 per barrel for good strained. The recent loss of two large Wilmington cargoes by marine disaster is said to be responsible for the strength of the local market. The abandonment of the Norwegian barque Freidig with a cargo from Murchison & Co. was noted a few days ago and yesterday it was learned that the barque Argo with a cargo of 6,107 barrels, consigned by the S. P. Shotter Company and valued at $9,868.25 had also been lost She was driven on the rocks Feb. 27 at Machariech, eight miles south of Campbelltown, Scotland, and became a total wreck. Three of her crew reached the shore and put off again in a boat to rescue their comrades, but they were blown to sea and have not since been heard of. The remainder of the Argo's crew was rescued by the Campbelltown lifeboat. The bark was considered a total loss on the 28th. Of course the local consignors are fully protected by insurance but the orders have to be refilled; hence the strong demand.

The brig Jennie Hulbert, hence for New York with lumber cargo, passed out at Southport at 9:20 A. M. yesterday. The British steamer Baron Inverdale, with cargo of cotton for Liverpool, passed out at 10 A. M. The Swedish barque Arago is at quarantine but is expected up to-day for cargo of naval stores.

PRETTY RECEPTION.

Congregation and Friends of Grace Church Delightfully Entertained Last Night.

AUSPICES EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Music, Refreshments and Other Social Features Participated in by Many Guests in New Annex to House of Worship—Committees.

Under the auspices of Grace Epworth League a most charming and elaborate reception was given last night from 8:30 to 10:30 o'clock in the new annex to the pretty church of the congregation at the northeast corner of Fourth and Grace streets. The lecture room, class rooms and church parlors were conveniently thrown into one by means of folding doors and the combined auditorium proved itself admirably adapted to social affairs of the kind which distinguished it last evening.

The rooms were attractively decorated with palms, ferns, wild smilax and yellow jessamine, while the lighting effect from handsomely polished candelabra in the refreshment room was all that could be desired. The guests—three or four hundred in number—were most hospitably received by a party among whom were Rev. and Mrs. J. N. Cole, Rev. and Mrs. R. B. John, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Perdew, Mrs. C. C. Covington, Mrs. A. C. Craft and Miss Neppie Borden.

The guests were favored during the earlier hour of the reception by a piano solo, "Rustle of Spring" (Sinding), by Wilmington's talented young musician, Mr. James Charles Craft. A vocal solo, "Forgotten" (Cowles), was charmingly rendered by Miss Mary Cole, who played her own accompaniment. Mrs. James Craik Lord delighted the audience with a beautiful soprano solo, "The Last Smile" (Wallenhaupt), and responded to an enthusiastic encore with the "Spring Song" by Mendelsohn. Mrs. Lord has a voice of much sweetness and is a valuable addition to musical circles of the city. She is a graduate of the Cincinnati School of Music.

Following the musical features, dainty refreshments were served by an assembly of pretty young ladies, who were most charming in their attendance. The refreshment committee was composed of Mrs. Jno. F. Garrell (chairman), Mrs. W. M. Hankins, Mrs. W. C. Craft and Mrs. Annie Bowden. The decorations were by a committee composed of Mrs. L. A. Blue (chairman; Miss Hazel Love, Miss Louise Van Laer and others.

The reception was a great success from every point of view. It was the most ambitious yet undertaken by the Epworth League and reflects great credit upon that enthusiastic organization. The League meets weekly on Fridays for devotional exercises from 7:45 to 8:30 P. M., and is a valuable auxiliary to the congregation in more ways than one.

Several Were Announced Yesterday—Fries' Mill Merger Appears Intact.

[Special Star Telegram.]

RALEIGH, N. C., March 12.—Gov. Aycock to-day announced the following appointments: J. P. Kerr, of Asheville, member of the Board of Directors of the Penitentiary, to succeed J. A. Brown, of Columbus, resigned; Jno. M. Forehand, of Chowan county, on the State Board of Agriculture, to succeed J. B. Cofield, of Martin county, resigned. Members of the Board of Visitors of the A. & M. College appointed were: C. W. Gold, Wilson; W. J. Peele, Raleigh; R. L. Smith, Albemarle; George Howell, Tarboro. The Governor also re-appoints W. M. Webb, of Morehead City, oyster commissioner.

The Raleigh Cotton Mill, has received notice that the mill will be taken in the Southern Textile Co.—Fries merger—on the basis of the original option. An expert will be here in a few days to perfect the merger of this mill. H. E. Fries, of Winston-Salem, will be vice president and general manager of the Southern Textile Co., the capital of which will be $14,000,000, to embrace eighty Southern mills.

The Woodmen at Kinston.

Messrs. George Jackson, J. W. Fleet and John E. Wood returned yesterday from Kinston, where they were in attendance upon the District Head Camp, Woodmen of the World, during the past few days. The jurisdiction of the District Camp is the States of North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia. A goodly number of delegates were in attendance. Mr. Fleet was honored with an election to the office of Head Watchman, and Mr. Jackson was made one of the five members of the Board of Managers. The next Head Camp will be held at Grafton, W. Va., with privilege to change to Charlestown, W. Va., should it later be deemed advisable.

Railway Car Men.

Upwards of 250 persons were present last night at an elaborate social session of the Local Union, Brotherhood Railroad Car Men, and all were more hospitably entertained. The meeting was held in Germania Hall, and after the social features, twenty-five new members were added, running the list up to over 200. Dr. Blackwell, pastor of the First Baptist church, was present by invitation and delivered a pleasing address upon the subject, "Man, Not a Machine."

SOUTH CAROLINA MURDERER.

Sam Wadkins, Wanted for Twelve Years in Marlboro County, at Last on His Way There—The Crime.

Sheriff J. B. Green, of Marlboro county, S. C., arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and took back with him in the afternoon the negro Sam Wadkins, alias Sam White, who is wanted by the South Carolina authorities for the brutal murder of another negro, Will Roper, in the Hebron neighborhood, seven miles from Bennettsville, S. C., 12 years ago on Dec. 3rd of this year.

White was recognized under most unusual circumstances at the last term of the United States court in this city, before which he was being tried for retailing liquor in Columbus county. The particulars of the recognition are well known. The negro could not be turned over to the South Carolina authorities until a requisition was honored by Gov. Aycock, of North Carolina, and until Judge Purnell could issue an order, releasing him from the Federal custody. These technicalities were observed this week and Sheriff Green came yesterday armed with all the necessary papers to take the negro to Bennettsville, where he will be tried at the term of Marlboro court, convening April 27th. There was no reward for his capture as was at first supposed. Sheriff Green says the woman over which the murder was committed, is living at Laurinburg and as he has all the papers from the coroner's inquest he doesn't think it will be difficult to convict.

The prisoner is about 30 years old and is on crutches from a broken ankle received by jumping from a fast moving train, when he was arrested in Columbus county for retailing liquor. He has a bad eye and looks as if he is capable of committing the aggravated murder with which he is charged. Near Laurinburg he was an intimate friend of a colored woman, who married his victim, a much younger man, and removed with him to Marlboro county. Wadkins followed the couple and going into their house with a shotgun, he demanded that the woman pack up her clothes and return with him. The young negro husband got out of the door and was retreating in the yard, when Wadkins filled him with shot from both barrels of the gun. Sheriff Green left yesterday afternoon with his prisoner, via Marion.

THE TOBACCO WAREHOUSE COMPANY.

Directors Will Meet This Morning—Assistant Manager Dodd's Canvass.

An important meeting of the Board of Directors of the Wilmington Tobacco Warehouse Company will be held at 10 o'clock this morning in the Chamber of Commerce. A full attendance is desired.

Mr. James Dodd, the enterprising assistant manager of the company, returned yesterday from a canvassing tour in the counties of Orangeburg, Barnwell, Aiken, Lexington and Edgefield, in South Carolina. He says that section is a remarkably fine tobacco belt and that most of the tobacco from that territory is shipped, as there are no local warehouses. Mr. Dodd has been personally acquainted with the people in that section for 18 years and upon the occasion of his visit this time, was in a position to put in some good work for the Wilmington warehouse. He says he thinks Wilmington may count on 800,000 pounds from that territory this year.

"WILD FLOWERS AND OCEAN BREEZES."

Special Schedule on Suburban Line—Carolina Yacht Club Open Certain Days.

Realizing that many members of the Carolina Yacth Club would like to visit the beach if the club house were open, Commodore John K. Williams announces that until further notice the club house will be open to members all day on Saturdays and Sundays, beginning this week. As usual in due season the club will be kept open all the time.

On account of the opening of the club the C. R. L. & P. Company will operate the following special schedule on those days in addition to the regular schedule: Leave Front and Princess every half hour from 1 to 5 P. M., and returning, leave Ocean View every half hour from 1:45 to 5:45 P. M., with an extra car leaving Front and Princess at 2:50 P. M., and another leaving Ocean View at 5:35 P. M.

Brunswick County Bonds.

The bill passed by the late Legislature empowering the commissioners of Brunswick county to issue bonds for the purpose of building a jail, county home, and for properly indexing the records of the county, is published in full in this week's issue of the Southport Standard. The amount of the bonds is $12,000 of a denomination not less than $100 nor more than $500; to run for twenty years and bear interest at not more than 6 per cent, payable annually. The usual machinery is provided for a special levy to pay the interest on the bonds and for a sinking fund to liquidate the debt.

Not Guilty of Larceny.

Jim Marine and Robert Johnson, the young men charged with the larceny of pistols from the Jacobi Hardware Co., were found not guilty and discharged in Justice McGowan's court yesterday. The factory, which was telegraphed for the numbers of the pistol sold to the Jacobi Company, replied that the record wanted for identification was not kept.

ANNUAL PURIM BALL.

Twenty-fourth Annual Entertainment Under Auspices of the Temple of Israel.

VISIT FROM MOTHER GOOSE.

Charming Little Play Rendered by Young Folks—An Elegant Supper and Round of Other Pleasures—The Committees in Charge.

The twenty-fourth annual Purim ball and entertainment under the auspices of the ladies of the congregation of the Temple of Israel was given last night in Harmony Circle club rooms in the MacRae building and it was one of the most delightful affairs of the season. The little folks were entertained from 4 to 8:30 o'clock and after that hour the older members of the congregation enjoyed the pleasures of the occasion. A delightful supper was served during the progress of the evening's enjoyment and dancing was participated in until a late hour, the music having been furnished by a select orchestra. The decorations were very effective and the menu for the supper most inviting.

The chief feature of the children's entertainment was the presentation of a delightful little cantata, "A Visit From Mother Goose and Her Family," which was richly costumed and the characters cleverly interpreted. The cast was as follows:

KICKED TO DEATH BY HORSE.

Distressing News Received by Mrs. R. D. W. Connor Yesterday Morning.

In response to a telegram announcing that her father, Mr. Philip Hanes, had been kicked by a horse and seriously wounded, Mrs. R. D. W. Connor, of this city, left yesterday morning for Mocksville, N. C. to be with him. She had hardly departed before a second telegram came bearing the distressing news that Mr. Hanes had died of his injuries. Prof. Connor received the telegram and left last evening to be with the family in their bereavement.

A special from Winston-Salem sent out before Mr. Hanes' death is as follows:

"WINSTON-SALEM, March 11.—News was received here to-day that Mr. Philip Hanes, a former resident of this city, now of Mocksville, was kicked by one of his horses yesterday afternoon and that his condition this morning was thought to be quite serious. The hoof of the animal struck Mr. Hanes in the lower part of the abdomen with great force. Dr. Stokes, of Salisbury, was called to see Mr. Hanes. He was expected to arrive this afternoon."

At the Academy of Music.

Last night's threatening weather did not deter a large audience from attending the Academy of Music and enjoying a fine performance of the four act comedy drama, "For Her Child's Sake." Again new specialties were introduced and again greatly pleased. Mr. Pete Seymour, perhaps, introduced the most laughable specialty of the evening and received several encores. To-night one of the most popular of all plays, "Hazel Kirke," will be presented. For the special ladies' and children's matinee to-morrow afternoon, tickets will be on sale at Plummer's in the morning.

$3,000 Too Much for Wilmington.

Mr. Collier has declared all negotiations off regarding bringing to Wilmington, the world's greatest living soprano, Mme. Nordica and the Great Duss' Metropolitan Opera House Band and Orchestra. While Wilmington aspires to such great attractions, this one being an opportunity only offered in a life time, $3,000 guarantees seem to be above her limit. To those who came forward, Mr. Collier begs to extend his thanks.

Telephone Men Here.

Mr. M. B. Spier, of Charlotte, superintendent of this district of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., arrived in the city yesterday on business connected with the installation of the new system in Wilmington. Mr. W. H. Atkins, of Atlanta, traffic manager of the company, will arrive to day on business for the company.

JEWISH FEAST OF PURIM

It Will Be Celebrated by Hebrews Everywhere To-day—Its Significance.

Jews everywhere will celebrate the Purim feast to-day. It marks the anniversary of King Ahasuerus' order rescinding the edict for the killing of the Jews and overthrowing the plans of Haman for the destruction of the race. Through the efforts of Esther the King issued the order, and gave the Jews permission to defend themselves when attacked.

The race was preserved by this order and the people have celebrated it ever since, covering a period of 2,400 years. The celebration has not the religious sentiment which marks so many of the Jewish holidays. In ancient times the anniversary was celebrated by giving dances, especially masquerades, and this custom has been continued to a large extent by thousands of Jews. One of the prescribed customs is for the assembling of the family in the morning and evening, when the book of Esther is read and there is a general exchange of presents. It generally is made the merriest of the Jewish holidays, marking, as it does, the preservation of the Jews.

WILLIAM H. BERNARD.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 13.

A WISCONSIN PROPOSITION.

Compared with some other Northern States there are not many negroes in Wisconsin, but Wisconsin, all the same, seems to be taking some interest in the race problem, if we may judge from the fact that from that State emanates the suggestion of an interstate conference, convention, or whatever it may be called, to "settle the race question."

The proposition is for the Governors of each of the States to appoint a delegation of a dozen or so men to meet in Atlanta to talk over this question. If such a conference were held, (which is not at all likely,) the delegates from the Northern States could doubtless pick up some valuable information if they came for that purpose, but as in all likelihood the majority of them would not come for that purpose they would learn but liitle, and might as well, for all the good it would do them or anyone else, have remained at home.

For thirty-four years the South has been wrestling with the race proulem, without any assistance but with much obstruction from the outside, and now when she has succeeded in getting it in pretty good shape she still encounters obstructions and a disposition to force her to undo all that she has done, because she took her own way to do it, and did it without asking the permission of men who knew nothing about it.

Exactly what the inspiration was and who inspired this Wisconsin movement we do not know, but coming almost coincident with the talk of Senator Spooner as a prospective candidate for the Presidency, and coming presumably from some of his friends it wears a political aspect, the object being, perhaps, to bring the race problem more conspicuously to the front with a view to injecting it into the next campaign as a national issue, thus keeping the negroes of the North solidly in line and at the same time diverting the attention of the people from economic questions in which they have for some time shown an interest, much to the embarrassment of the Republican leaders.

As far as the negroes are concerned, the Republican politicians of Wisconsin are not much interested, because there are comparatively few of them in that State, and they are not a factor that it is necessary to cater to; and, of course, they are not concerned as to the negroes in the Southern States, for they, in common with the Republican leaders of the North, have long since ceased to expect anything from them, so that the only apparent motive in calling for this conference is to add impetus to the race agitation.

Imagine, if you can, a dozen delegates of the Spooner type, (and that's about the type the Wisconsin delegates would be) and a dozen delegates of the Tillman type (and that's about the type the South Carolina delegates would be) discussing the race problem, and trying to "settle" it. Or imagine these same Spooner delegates discussing the question with a delegation of "Lily Whites," brother Republicans with the black rubbed off. How long would it take them to get together and agree on a settlement? Not before the arch angel blows his trumpet.

We have been talking about the race problem ever since it became a problem. A generation has come and gone since then, and in all that time the Republicans of the Northern States have never made one move in the direction of solving it, but have, on the contrary, done everything in their power to prevent its solution by the only people who are capable of solving it, and who have the most interest in solving it right, for the good of the white man and the black man, too, for the benefit of all, to the injury of none. That is what qualified suffrage means, qualfied suffrage not peculiar to Southern States but found in a number of Northern States where there was less necessity for it, but where it was adopted in the interest of the commonwealths, to protect them from ignorance and venality, the same reason precisely for which it was adopted in the Southern States. That's the way we have taken to "settle the race question," the only way by which it can be settled without going further and disfranchising the blacks as a race, something the South has not thought of and will not unless driven to it by annoying agitation or proscriptive legislation.

But this is not the settlement these Northern race question discussers want. What they want would unsettle it and put us back where we were twenty-five years ago with the negroes as a dominating factor in some States and in many portions of other States.

If they want to see the race question settled let them keep their hands and tongues off, cease meddling, and let it be settled by the Southern people, who have the most vital interest in settling it, and in settling it effectively and right.

There is in the State of Wisconsin a very large number of voters of different foreign nationalities. In some sections and cities this vote is a controlling factor. When united it is a controlling factor in State elections. Suppose it was found that this was a corrupt and venal vote and that it was being used to the detriment of the State, and in that case it was found necessary to adopt restrictive regulations, would any Southern State raise its voice against that, intermeddle and undertake to tell Wisconsin what she should do? Not much. They would simply consider it none of their business and that Wisconsin was more capable of managing that question for herself than they would be for her, and that's the way Wisconsin and other States on the other side of the line should feel about the South. They should mind their own business, and let the South, without their meddlesome interference, attend to hers.

A PRACTICAL ILLUSTRATION.

We clip the following from the Philadelphia Record, showing how negro suffrage was a "failure" in St. Louis:

Since the Secretary of War, Mr. Root, declared that "negro suffrage is a failure" several incidents have occurred which go far to confirm this view. The voluminous testimony taken by the House Committee on Elections, upon whose prevaricating report Representative Butler, of Missouri, was ejected from his seat in spite of a majority of more than 6,000 votes, affords a striking proof of this "failure," at least so far as the Republican party is concerned. The Twelfth District of Missouri (part of St. Louis), which was formerly a Republican stronghold, contains from 8,000 to 4,000 negro voters. These colored citizens up to quite recent years voted the Republican ticket in mass—so solidly, in fact, that in 1893 only eighteen of them "would stand out openly for the Democratic party." But, as appears from the evidence before the committee, a great change has taken place in the sentiments and political course of these negro voters. This serves in a large degree to account for the changed attitude of the Republican majority in Congress, and for the growing opinion among the Republican leaders that the "experiment" of negro suffrage, as Secretary Root calls it, is a "failure."

This is the district in which Representative Butler was twice elected, neither of which elections counted for him, the first because the House committee found that there were frauds on both sides and therefore the election was declared off. Butler had about 3,000 majority then, and the next time he ran his majority was twice as large. Fraud was charged and his seat was given to his Republican contestant.

Possibly there was fraud, but the very fact that a Democrat could get as many negro votes as he did in the last election was taken as conclusive proof of fraud, and corruption, or in other words that the negroes had been bought, which is very likely. This shows, however, the estimate the Republicans in Congress put upon the integrity of the negro as a voter when they take it for granted that when he votes for a Democratic candidate he is bought. And it also shows the mockery and hypocrisy of all the clatter they are making over the efforts of Southern States to eliminate the venal element by restricting suffrage.

RAISING SHEEP.

The Macon Telegraph gives more attention to agricultural matters in that State than any other daily Georgia paper that we see, and in this it is doing Georgia and the farmers of Georgia good service. It was largely instrumental in the encouragement of grass and grain growing in Georgia, and has devoted considerable attention to stock raising. A recent issue contains the following on sheep raising:

The sheep industry in Georgia amounts to a considerable item, notwithstanding the ubiquitous and malicious dog. In these latter days, some have come to regard sheep culture as almost out of the question on account of the roaming, hungry cur. Despite the many obstacles, however, and the insatiable foe of the sheep, a creditable showing has been made by the State as a whole.

Figures from the manual, "Abstract of the Twelfth Census," are interesting and significant. In the entire United States there were produced 276,567,584 pounds of wool, valued at $45,670,053 during 1899. In the year 1900 the total number of sheep was 61,735,014, representing a capital of $170,881,743.

Georgia during the year referred to produced 5,762 sheep and 2,046 goats. Alabama at the same time gave to the world 6,404 sheep and 4,762 goats. During the Fall of 1899 and Spring of 1900, there were shorn in this State 282,628 sheep, representing 777,189 pounds of wool, valued at $155,811. Alabama's showing is 299,118 sheared sheep, 744,274 pounds of wool worth $150,943.

There is little doubt the farmers in Georgia would engage more extensively in sheep raising but for the pestiferous canine. This enterprise could be made immensely profitable in the South, as much so as in the West. Our climatic conditions are more suited to sheep than the blizzardry western portion of the United States. We could raise them at a lesser cost, for the reason our pastures are greener later in the Fall and earlier in the Spring, and our agriculturists would not be compelled to provide such extensive and expensive shelters, nor employ so so many helpers to care for them.

The country that produces the cotton for the world ought to produce the wool. It is lamentable that a comparatively useless animal should so militate against an important industry as to make it a tithing of what it could be. Nevertheless, we are gratified to know that sheep raising in Georgia has not been abandoned, and a neat revenue has been realized for the pro-

Instant Relief and Speedy Cure Afforded by

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills When All Else Fails.

COMPLETE TREATMENT, $1.00.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants and the anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum, all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy, have made them the standard skin cures and humour remedies of the civilized world.

Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, in the severer forms, take Cuticura Resolvent Pills, to cool and cleanse the blood. A single set is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring and humiliating skin, scalp and blood humours, with loss of hair, when all else fails.

motors. When the pine forests to the south of Macon are swept away by the lumbermen (and they are nearly gone) a fine, vast field for sheep and cattle will be opened up.

We clip this because, as a whole, it applies with a much force to North Carolina as to Georgia. We are making some progress on this line in this State—just how much we cannot say, because we have no late figures; but judging from things we see in our State papers we infer that there is a growing interest in sheep raising.

As in Georgia, the principal obstacle here is the ravages by dogs, but this is a trouble that could be easily remedied by the farmers who want to raise sheep if they would organize and constitute themselves a vigilance committee to deal summarily with dogs found running at large. If that system were adopted the prowling sheep destroyers would soon be so thinned out as to do but little harm.

A doctor testifying before the U. S. Supreme Court Commissioner, at St. Louis, on the Chicago canal drainage case, said he dumped a lot of bacilli, imported from Europe, into the canal fifteen miles below Chicago and that he afterwards caught some of the same bacilli from the water tap in the city hall at St. Louis. They were not only not injured, but grew fat, big and vigorous by the run down. He is, therefore, convinced that typhoid bacilli can be carried from Chicago to St. Louis by the canal.

A man has recently died in Moscow leaving an estate worth $100,000,000. He had a soft spot in his heart for mothers-in-law, and he once proposed to build homes for all of them who were badly treated by their sons-in-law, but the authorities thought this would be giving encouragement to fellows who wanted to get rid of their mothers-in-law and wouldn't permit him to do it.

Pedro Tinsley, colored, ex-porter of a parlor car on the Northwestern railroad running out of Chicago, which position he resigned some time ago to become musical instructor in Booker Washington's college, has resigned that because he and Booker couldn't agree as to the style of music. He says Booker has no more ear for it than a hippopotamus and believes in the stentorian not the æsthetic.

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

NEW YORK, March 13.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of two to three points and worked upward a matter of six to eight points under better Liverpool cables than were due on the New York close yesterday and continued flood reports. In the early trading the new crop months came in for special attention and the greatest advances were scored in the autumn positions on the ground that the recent unfavorable weather has greatly delayed planting and that consequently a late movement is probable. The main buying came from shorts and when May had sold up to 9.86 and July 9.65, long cotton began to come upon the market in large blocks, arousing fresh apprehensions among the smaller longs that the clique holdings were being liquidated. The weather South also showed signs of clearing up, leading to anticipations of an expanding movement and the early estimates for to-day's ports were considered liberal considering the conditions of the roads as indicated by the statement from Washington postponing the March ginners report to about April 1st for the reason, it is alleged that the roads are impassable. Liverpool turned easier in the later trading, closing at a decline of nine to ten points against 6½ to 7½ points at the time of the local opening. The selling was further encouraged by the estimates for to-morrow's receipts at leading points and reports of labor trouble at certain New England centers and as the decline progressed stop loss orders were uncovered. After a loss of thirteen to nineteen points from the best had been recorded the market took a fresh upward turn under renewed clique support and profit taking by shorts. The port receipts turned out less than expected, being 18,148 bales against 21,300 last year, and exports were heavy. There was a partial reaction under selling by long and shorts. The market was finally steady, net one point higher to six lower, the advance being confined to September. Total sales futures estimated at 450,000 bales.

BUILDING UP A TOWN

A GEORGIA EDITOR TELLS HOW IT CAN BE DONE.

He Says the Best Way Is to Liberally Support the Local Newspaper and Thoroughly Boom the Town With Desirable Advertising.

For almost a quarter of a century I have devoted my time and efforts to the solution of the problem, "How to build up a country paper," and the twin question, "How to build up a town," writes A. H. Shaver, editor of the Jackson Argus, in the Atlanta Constitution.

My experience has been that the solutions of the two problems are absolutely inseparable. To build up a town its citizens must help build up the local paper, and if an editor would build up his paper he must be truly patriotic and untiringly devoted to every interest of his town and county. One cannot be built up without the other, and it is from this newspaper man's standpoint that I will consider the question, "How to build up a town."

This is an advertising age, and the best advertisement a town can have is a live, hustling, patriotic weekly paper. The world acknowledges that there is no such thing as business success, the successful launching of any enterprise or the rapid and permanent advancement of a town without liberal advertising. The recent act of a New England corporation, with a paid up stock of $100,000, emphasizes my assertion here, as the first decision of its stockholders was to put $10,000 in the manufacture of their article and $90,000 in advertising it the first year.

Here it is, then, in a nutshell: The best way to start building up a town is to thoroughly boom it with desirable advertising. The best advertisement of a town is a first class local paper filled with local advertisements, giving evidence of a live, up to date, progressive citizenry, and the best way to secure that is to secure the location of a good man, and then stick to him by liberal patronage, in every way encouraging him and holding up his hands.

In January, 1901, I sold the Dalton Argus, and after visiting and considering some dozen or fifteen locations I bought the Jackson Argus because "Jackson is the biggest town of its size in the south," filled with hustling business men, brimming with energy and enterprise, and because I felt there were the greatest need and best opening here for a live, up to date local paper. I settled down last April and began the publication of The Argus upon my usual plan—to publish a purely local paper and give as good a paper as my patronage would possibly permit, to pull for everything that was for the good of the town and county regardless of any personal differences with those in charge, to have as little as possible to do with politics and to take no part whatever in local politics.

Within ten days after my location here the agitation of the Jackson Chautauqua was started and the organization of the Jackson Chautauqua association perfected. Almost a perfect stranger other than by reputation, I was elected an officer by the directors and put actively to work. I realized that a successful Chautauqua was the best thing that could possibly be "pulled off" in order to give Jackson desirable and needed advertising abroad. I immediately put my shoulder to the wheel with all the energy I possessed, doing my best according to my ability and lights, giving the assembly at least $300 or $400 of free advertising and at least $100 out of my own pocket for its advancement. I did this willingly, although, strange as it may seem, there was a strong element opposed to the Chautauqua. As the result of my action I lost money temporarily, but gained desirable advertising for Jackson. The able president, assisted by the liveliest merchants and most patriotic people of the town, made a splendid success of the Chautauqua.

The extent of the appreciation of my humble efforts in behalf of the enterprise can be discerned from an expression by one of the oldest, most solid and honored citizens of Jackson. He said to me a few days since: "I must congratulate you and The Argus. You are advertising Jackson as it was never advertised before and have been the means of the town making rapid strides forward."

This is simply to illustrate that the best way to start to build up a town is to give it desirable advertising. This can only be done by patronizing the local paper and holding up the editor's hands in every enterprise that is started for the good of the town.

ST. LOUIS' BEAUTY SCHEME

Flower Seeds and Planting Directions Given to School Children.

In St. Louis a botanical club has taken the lead in efforts leading to the beautifying of the city. They have prepared a system of seed distribution in co-operation with the seed companies. Envelopes have been distributed which present a choice of seed of sixteen different flowers and vines, each seed package costing 2 cents. These envelopes have full directions as to when and how to plant the seeds and how to take care of the plants afterward.

After indicating the seeds wanted these envelopes are returned to the Engelmann Botanical club. The seeds will be ready for distribution two or three days after receipt of the envelopes. Envelopes have been sent to each pastor in St. Louis and can be obtained from them.

In order to interest every child in the city the Engelmann Botanical club will give to every child which in any way improves its home this year a neat diploma signed by the mayor, Rolla Wells, and the president of the society, indicating that the holder is worthy of merit for aiding in the beautifying of St. Louis.

Among the directions given on the envelopes is one on how to make a window box for flowers which might well be noted by any one who has the plan in mind.

"Any box six or eight inches deep which you can fasten to the window will answer," say these directions, "but it is best to have one as long as your window is wide, 6 or 8 inches deep and 12 to 15 inches wide. Fill with fine, rich soil and fasten to the sunniest window, or such boxes can be placed on a fence instead of near the window.

"Plant morning glories on the side nearest the house, training them upward on strings. Climbing nasturtiums should be planted near the outside to hang down over the box. In the middle of the box plant calliopsis, zinnias, marigolds, petunias or pinks. Thin out the plants so that they are four or five inches apart. Do not forget to water every day, as they dry out very quickly. The soil should be kept moist to the bottom of the box."

If you have a dime, don't make yourself believe it is a dollar. That is what you do when you stop work to tell what a good man you are.—Atchison Globe.

IGNORANT OF GEOGRAPHY.

How a German Put Posers to an American Girl.

"A thing about Americans which has surprised me more than anything else," said a German artist who has been visiting in New York city for six months past, "is that with all your patriotism you know so little about the geography of your own country, to say nothing of the rest of the world."

There were several Americans in the circle, and they looked rather surprised. None of the men spoke. They knew that they were weak in geography and that here was a challenge which would have to pass.

Not so a bright young woman of twenty, who rushed into the breach with her head in the air.

"We do know the geography of our country," she said decidedly. "Of course we do. Every child learns it in school."

"Might I ask you a question or two?" the foreigner said quietly. "The names of the capitals of some of your states, for instance?"

"Certainly. I'll be glad to answer." And she nodded confidently at the young American man who was already beginning to fear for her.

"What is the capital of Massachusetts?" was his first question.

"Boston!" was the prompt answer from the girl.

"And of North Carolina?"

That seemed to puzzle her a little, and it was a full minute before she answered "Charleston!"

The foreigner smiled, but made no effort to correct her. "What is the highest mountain in the United States?" he asked.

"It's not fair to ask about mountains," she protested. "You said I didn't know the capitals."

"The capital of Illinois is?"

"Chi—Springfield, I mean."

"Of Montana?"

For the life of her she could not think of a town in Montana. "It's been an age since I studied geography," she explained.

"Your answers were better than the average," said the man. "You got one right out of four. As I said, American geography surprises me."—New York Tribune.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

It is safer to prune too little than too much.

Moist earth and a cloudy day for transplanting.

Gooseberries and currants are two easily grown fruits, and there is seldom an oversupply.

The quality and size of fruit on old bushes is much improved by thinning of the fruit or severe pruning.

The cause of moss appearing on the stems of apple and other fruit trees is wet, cold, undrained land or an excessively humid climate.

In saving garden seed gather when ripe. Do not allow it to shell off. The first matured is the best, and the first matured will shell first.

A good mulch around fruit trees helps to keep down weeds, keeps the soil loose, moist and porous at all times, with little labor of cultivation.

The time of setting out of fruit trees is of far less importance than to see that the right varieties are selected, the soil prepared and transplanting well done.

Candles.

"I thought candles went with stage-coaches, but a good many people must use them yet," said a shopper who pointed to a collection of candlesticks, all of the utility sort, arrayed in a house furnishing department. There were big and little, ornamental and plain, practical and unpractical ones. Some had broad trays, and others had none at all, and some had devices for lifting the candle, while others were made with deep necks. There still remain people who cling to the traditions of their ancestors and will have none of the modern lighting inventions for their sleeping rooms. Certain women prefer a light in their bedrooms until they are asleep, and for this purpose a candle is just the thing, for it will put itself out at the time proportioned by its length.—New York Tribune.

Vacant Lot Gardens.

In Philadelphia there are 638 gardens operating on what were formerly vacant lots by people who used to be unable to earn their own living. Five years ago the Philadelphia Vacant Lot association was organized, says the Philadelphia North American. Twenty-seven acres all together were secured and 100 gardens started. The officers of the society found a big demand for the lots by the poor people, and they have gradually increased their holdings until now over 600 gardens are in operation.

FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 13.

INQUEST IN BUFFALO MURDER MYSTERY.

To Be Held Next Tuesday—Expected to Be Interesting—Certain Telegrams to Be Produced.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 12.—The inquest into the murder of Edwin L. Burdick will be held next Tuesday. Police Judge Murphy, who will conduct it, said to-day that he will make the most complete investigation ever held in this country.

"I have set the date for next Tuesday," he added, "in order to allow the police and district attorney four more days in which to investigate the case. That ought to be long enough to bring out the truth. Any way, it is as long as innocent persons ought to be under suspicion when their names have been in everybody's mouth since the murder was first reported."

Arrangements for the funeral of Mr. and Mrs. Pennell have been practically completed. The services, which will be quiet and simple, will be held to-morrow, after which the bodies will be taken to Brunswick, Maine, for interment.

The fact that all persons known to be concerned in the Burdick mystery will give in public the statements they made before the district attorney will doubtless make the proceedings before Justice Murphy at the inquest, which will begin next Tuesday, most interesting.

Another move, having an interesting bearing on the Burdick case, was decided upon to-day after District Attorney Coatsworth had conferred with Chief of Detectives Cusack. The authorities have determined to obtain all the telegrams that passed between Mrs. Burdick and Mrs. Hull before Burdick's murder. The grand jury is now in session and the district attorney can conduct John Doe proceedings to require the Western Union to produce telegrams. They were on the Monday and Tuesday before the Thursday of the murder, when Mrs. Burdick, who saw Arthur Pennell near New York, telegraphed to Mrs. Hull, who replied.

The authorities questioned both Mrs. Burdick and Mrs. Hull regarding the contents of these telegrams. Both of them gave the same version. They said the messages were an inquiry and a reply regarding Mrs. Hull's health. The Western Union refused to produce the messages, and for that reason to-day's proceedings were decided upon. The telegrams may not be material to the case, but the authorities want to see them.

Edwin L. Burdick's will, which is to be offered for probate to-morrow, cuts off Mrs. Burdick and bequeaths the estate, share and share alike, to the three children. A clause in the will naming three executors and guardians for the children will likely be contested on the ground that the appointment is void because Mrs Burdick is still alive. Burdick's estate is worth about $80,000, consisting of $55,000 in property, real and personal, and $25,000 in life insurance. Because she is cut out in the will, Mrs. Burdick will get one-third of the real estate and none of the personal property.

ANOTHER INJUNCTION ISSUED.

To Stop the Truck Drivers' Strike at Kansas City, Mo.—More Men Have Joined the Strikers.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

KANSAS CITY, MO., March 27.—Two women, Mrs. G. B. Evans and Mrs. H. S. Meyers, took the places of their husbands, non union men, to-day and drove trucks about town in defiance of the striking transfer companies' drivers. They met no interference, but instead the men lifted their hats as the women rode by, and cleared the way for their vehicles. Although it was still necessary for the police to remain on duty about the barns there was no violence to-day aside from two or three trucks being stopped. A big crowd of strikers and sympathizers followed one wagon, driven by a non-union man, and when a few stones were thrown he willingly returned to the barns. About fifty additional men went out during the day, making a total of 255, and as but few men are hired in their places the business of the transfer companies was practically at a standstill.

An injunction was granted to night to the Kansas City Transfer Company against the Team Drivers' International Union No. 459, and the sympathizers of the strike, by Judge John F. Phillips of the United States district court. The action was brought on the ground that the complainants are government cart-men, being employed by the government in transporting bonded goods.

CASE OF DR. CRUM.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The Senate Committee on Commerce to-day decided to postpone action on the nomination of Dr. William D. Crum to be collector of the port at Charleston, S. C., until next Thursday. The suggestion for postponement was made by Senator Clay. There are a number of vacancies on the committee and he urged that the committee should not act until these were filled. It is now believed by the opponents of Dr. Crum that another meeting of the committee will not be held during the present session.

Senator Money, of Miss., has introduced a resolution requiring the President to inform the Senate whether postal facilities are now being afforded the people of Indianola, Miss. It is Senator Money's intention to address the Senate upon the Indianola case at some future time.

THE MISSISSIPPI RISING RAPIDLY.

Gov. Longino Convinced That the Levees Must Break To-day or To-morrow.

THE SITUATION AT MEMPHIS.

Engineers Say the Crest of the Rise Will Probably Reach That City Monday. They Predict a Record Breaking Stage of Water.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

MEMPHIS, TENN., March 12.—There is little change in the river situation to-night and although the rise to-day has been slight, the situation is still considered grave and a stage of more than 38 feet is still expected. The gauge to-night shows 35.8 and rising, an advance of two tenths since midnight last night.

Dispatches from Caruthersville say that the situation there is practically unchanged, and that the embankments will hold a stage of water three feet greater than at present. These dispatches are from private individuals and if the government engineers have received advices from Caruthersville to-day they have not made them public. Captain Lucas, U. S. engineer in charge of the first and second districts, left to-day for Helena, Ark., to personally inspect conditions in the White river districts. The government steamer Mercury left to-day for Helena with supplies and men for Assistant Engineer Levasseur, who is in charge of the levee strengthening work at that point.

The Robert E. Lee left to-day for the south carrying supplies and men for the levee engineers at Cat Island, where the rush of the waters through the seventeen-mile gap in the levee is causing apprehension. The James Lee left for the north with men and supplies for the engineers at Pecan Point, where strengthening work is in progress on the embankments. No news has been received from the area in Mississippi county, Arkansas, which was reported flooded yesterday by water having percolated through the embankments.

The engineers here say that the crest of the rise will probably reach Memphis Monday, unless there are further heavy rains generally over the area drained by the tributaries of the Mississippi in the meantime. They predict a record-breaking stage of water on account of the fact that the levees are holding against the flood. During the high water, 1897, the river at Memphis was forty miles broad and there were no embankments on the Arkansas shore to back up the waters, and narrow the channel of the river. Should the embankments hold, the crest of the rise will pass Memphis quicker than otherwise would be the case, and the danger of breaks in the levees below this city will be greatly increased. For this reason the situation below Memphis is that which is developing most concern.

JACKSON, MISS., March 12.—So thoroughly convinced is Governor Longino that the Mississippi levees must break to-morrow or next day that he will leave to-morrow morning for Greenville, whence he will direct the work of the State convicts and see to the transportation of the State property to a place of safety. Warden Henry is now gathering convicts from several State farms and is hastening by special trains to points of danger along the river front.

NEW ORLEANS, March 12. — The river here is rising more rapidly now. To-day the gauge marked 18.7, a rise of three-tenths of a foot in twenty-four hours, bringing it within eight-tenths of the record of 1897. The weather continues rainy and cloudy. An increased force of men was put to work along the river front to-day, and sacking is now to be carried on all along the line.

VINCENNES, IND., March 12.—Although the Wabash river is slowly falling at this place, reports continue to come in of the rise of White river, and with them come stories of suffering among the poorer classes and those who failed to heed the warning that high water was almost a certainty in this section. The levee at Red Cloud gave way and let a vast amount of water into the surrounding territory. The water came into the fields with a rush and people had no time to battle with it. Many school children were rescued in boats.

JACKSON, MISS., March 12.—The Levee Board, in session at Clarksdale, have asked that forces of convicts be rushed to the levee section in Issaquena county, where the embankments are reported to be in great danger. Officials of Sharkey county have requested a supply of tents, as breaks in the levees would render hundreds of families homeless.

VICKSBURG, MISS., March 12.—Disquieting reports come from Issaquena and Coahoma counties to-night, where there are said to be many weak places in the levee lines. At these danger points large crowds of men and great quantities of materials are concentrated and strenous efforts are being made to hold the works. The most disquieting feature of the situation to-day has been a steady fall of rain, which is playing havoc with the new work. Should a break occur in either the Issaquena or Coahoma line thousands of acres of the rich lands would be inundated and thousands of negroes rendered destitute. At this point the river continues to rise slowly, the gauge at 7 P. M., registering 47.9, a rise of one-tenth since 8 A. M.

TRAIN WRECKER ARRESTED.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Robert Hamilton, formerly an employe of the Southern Railway, was arrested to-day at his home ten miles south of Fairfax Court House, Va., on the charge of causing the wreck of the New York and Florida Express at Ravensworth, Va., last month, in which two men were killed and a number injured. Hamilton was held for the action of the grand jury. He is said to have admitted that he committed the crime. He is 30 years old and unmarried.

GOV. AYCOCK DECLINES.

Will Not Appoint Delegates to Negro Race Convention at Atlanta.

CHARLOTTE, March 12.—A special to the Observer from Raleigh says:

Governor Aycock declines to appoint delegates to the negro convention in Atlanta. He says: "I think it a piece of foolishness. I will let Georgia attend to her own race troubles and let North Carolina attend to hers. We have troubles enough of our own and have always been diligent enough to meet them and overcome them."

DECREE PROVIDING FOR FREEDOM OF RELIGION.

Establishing Local Self-Government and Making Other Concessions—Issued by the Czar of Russia.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 12.—The Czar has issued a decree providing for freedom of religion throughout his dominions, establishing to some degree local self-government, and making other concessions to the village committees.

The decree, which was issued in commemoration of the anniversary of the birthday of Alexander III, is considered to be the most significant act of state since the emancipation of the serfs. The public hails this as a proclamation of a new era opening up bright prospects of the early improvement of Russia's internal administration. The text of the decree is in part as follows:

"The troubles agitating our country which to our deep regret have partly been sown by designs hostile to the state and partly engendered by doctrines foreign to Russian life, hinder the general work of ameliorating the well being of our people. These troubles confuse the public mind, remove the people from productive labor, and often ruin families dear to our heart, and young energies among high and low, necessary to the internal development of the country. In demanding the fulfillment of this our will, while remaining strongly opposed to any violation of the normal course of natural life and having confidence that all will loyally discharge their local duties, we are irrevocably decided to satisfy the thousands for which the state has become ripe, and have deemed it expedient to strengthen and decree the undeviating observance of the principles of tolerance laid down by the fundamental laws of the Russian empire, which, recognizing the orthodox church as the ruling one grant to all our subjects of other religions and to all persuasions, freedom of creed and worship in accordance with other rites, and we are further resolved to continue the active carrying out of measures for the improvement of the moral position of the orthodox loyal clergy, while enabling them to take a larger share in intellectual and public life.

"In accordance with impending measures for the consolidation of the national economy, the efforts of the state credit institutions, and especially the nobles and peasants' banks, should be directed to strengthening and developing the welfare and fundamental pillars of Russian village life and that of the local nobility and peasantry. These principles, marked out by us for the revision of the laws of the rural population are, when formulated, to be referred to the provincial government councils, so that with the assistance of persons enjoying the public confidence they may be further developed and adapted to the special conditions of individual localities. In this work the fundamental principle of the inviolability of communal property is to be maintained, while at the same time means are to be found to render it easier for the individual to sever connection with the community to which he belongs, if he so desires.

"Without delay measures must be taken to release the peasants from the present burdensome liability of forced labor.

"Thorough reform is to be effected in the provincial governments and district administrations by the local representatives while attention will be devoted to securing closer co-operation between the communal authorities and parochial trustees of orthodox churches wherever possible.

"Calling upon all our subjects to co-operate in strengthening the moral foundations of family, school and public life, under which alone the well-being of the people and the confidence of every one in the stability of his rights can develop, we command our ministers and chief officials concerned in this matter to submit to us their views regarding the execution of our intentions."

Although the Jewish faith is not specifically mentioned in the decree, it is believed that the liberty granted to "all creeds" is intended to include the Jews.

MORGAN IN WASHINGTON.

Called at the White House and Had Conference With the President.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—J. Pierpont Morgan and party, consisting of his daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Markeo and two other ladies, friends of Miss Morgan, arrived in Washington shortly before noon to-day from Jekyl Island. The party is stopping at the Arlington but pursuant to Mr. Morgan's custom none of them registered and all knowledge of their plans was denied at the hotel.

It is known, however, that shortly after Mr. Morgan's arrival a messenger from the White House came in search of him, but Mr. Morgan was out at the time. Further than to say that he was on his way to New York, Mr. Morgan would not discuss his visit.

Mr. Morgan called at the White House during the afternoon and held a conference with the President. He was alone and remained for about half an hour with Mr. Roosevelt. The nature of his call was not disclosed.

The Associated Press is informed that while in New York the secretary looked into the money situation somewhat, but did not see anything in the present condition to warrant interference on the part of the department. It is authoritatively stated that it is not his purpose, certainly at present, to take any steps whatever in the matter.

PENDING TREATIES IN THE SENATE.

Indications That End of the Work for Which the Extra Session Was Called Is in Sight.

CUBAN RECIPROCITY TREATY.

Favorable Report by the Committee—An Amendment That It Shall Not Take Effect Until Approved by the House—Panama Canal.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, March 12. — There were two important developments to-day regarding the treaties pending in the Senate. The decision of the Senate to vote upon the Panama canal treaty on Tuesday next and the reporting back of the Cuban reciprocity treaty to the Senate by the Committee on Foreign Relations, indicate that the end of the work for which the extra session was called is in sight.

It is believed the Democrats as a body probably will cease opposition to the Cuban treaty, but some of them, the sugar interests of whose States are affected by the treaty, will continue to oppose it. The Republican side of the Senate will vote practically, if not absolutely, solid for the treaty, and it is now generally believed that it will be ratified after action upon the Panama treaty.

The progress made to-day leads many senators to predict an adjournment by the close of next week. The action of the Committee on Commerce in postponing a vote upon Dr. Crum's nomination, which also took place to-day, is generally accepted as disposing of that matter for this session.

The Agreement.

The Senate by unanimous consent to-day agreed to vote on the Colombian canal treaty Tuesday. The amendments to the treaty are to be considered Monday. The request for unanimous agreement was made by Senator Frye. The agreement is in part as follows:

"That, not later than Tuesday next, the vote upon the resolution for ratification shall be taken without further debate. That the injunction of secrecy shall then be removed from the speeches of Senator Morgan, already printed and submitted to senators, including that to be made by him on the response to the Senate resolution calling for information as to the agreement between the Panama Canal Company and our government, and they shall be printed in the Record, and that the speech or speeches made for and against the ratification of the treaty, during the hour of general debate allowed each side, shall be printed in the Record in like manner as the speeches of Senator Morgan."

On motion of Senator Gorman the injunction of secrecy was removed from the agreement.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations to day authorized a favorable report on the Cuban Reciprocity Treaty, with an amendment similar to that recommended in connection with other reciprocity treaties, providing that the treaty shall not take effect until approved by the House of Representatives as well as by the Senate.

The amendments made to the treaty by the committee at the last session of Congress were renewed at to-day's meeting and were accepted without discussion. One of these provides for a reduction of forty per cent. in the tariff on American cattle shipped into Cuba, and the other is as provision prohibiting in explicit term a further reduction than 20 per cent. in the duty on Cuban sugar shipped into the United States and also prohibiting reductions in the rates of sugar coming into the United States from other countries.

The amendment providing for the submission of the treaty to the House was offered by Senator Bacon. At the last session of Congress the committee refused to attach it to the treaty, but when it was presented to-day it was accepted after very little discussion. The principal reason for its acceptance was that members of the House have urged in strong terms the constitutional right of that body to pass upon all reciprocity treaties because of their effect upon the revenues. Senator Bacon strongly supported this view but other members of the committee generally took the position that the action of the House was not necessary to render the treaty of binding effect. No formal vote was taken upon the amendment, it being accepted by unanimous consent. Senator Bacon remarked that the amendment would materially facilitate the ratification of the treaty.

The committee recommends that the amendment be added at the end of the treaty. Its exact language is as follows: "This treaty shall not take effect until the same shall have been approved by the Congress."

The Democratic senators as a rule express themselves as satisfied to allow the Cuban treaty to be acted upon with the amendment for submission to the House added. They say that this addition meets their demands on the question of principle, that if there is any further opposition it will come from individual senators and not from the Democrats as a whole. A leading Democratic senator said to day, after the treaty as amended had been reported to the Senate: "We shall not stand in the way of the treaty and it is my opinion that it will be ratified if a quorum can be maintained."

Among the senators who expressed the opinion that the treaty would not become effective under the operation of the amendment until approved by both houses of Congress were Senators Allison, Platt of Connecticut, Teller and Bacon. These senators also contended that the action of the House upon reciprocity treaties is necessary in order to conform to the constitution of the United States. Senator Allison, who always has taken a leading part in tariff and financial legislation, was quite emphatic in his expression of this view, and he cited the Senate to a number of reciprocity treaties, in all of which cases the co-operation of the two houses of Congress had been secured.

After concluding his remarks upon the effect of the amendment, Senator Teller entered upon a discussion of the merits of the treaty in detail, contending that it was a direct thrust at the sugar industry of the United States and that its effect would be entirely in the interest of the sugar trust, which he claimed would be benefitted to the extent of no less than six million dollars annually by the reduction of duties on raw sugar.

Senators Platt of Connecticut, and Dietrich of Nebraska, replied to Mr. Teller. Mr. Platt spoke very briefly, denying especially that the sugar trust would reap the benefit of the reduction proposed by the treaty. He said he would not at this time go into the question, but that he hoped at a later day to be able to cite facts which would convince the Senate that the contention was unfounded.

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND.

Situation in Rome Regarding His Appointment as Cardinal Unchanged.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

ROME, March 12.—The situation with regard to the appointment of Archbishop Ireland as cardinal is unchanged. Personages of high authority at the Vatican say that his nomination is likely in two contingencies—as a reward when the Philippine question is satisfactory solved, or in the event of his nomination being asked for, directly or indirectly, by the supreme authority of the United States. Regarding the views of the apostolic delegates at Washington as to the wisdom of such an appointment, the Vatican has always instructed the apostolic delegates to keep in touch with the trend of public opinion ever since Cardinal Satolli was at Washington, when the Vatican understood that President Cleveland would view with satisfaction the nomination of Archbishop Ireland.

A DESPERATE BATTLE.

Eight Men Reported Killed and a Number of Others Wounded

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NORWALK, FLA., March 12.—Assessor Bullard, of McMeekin, who arrived at this place to-day, reports a desperate encounter between the hands of rival turpentine camps near Orange Springs. A contention arose about a matter of little importance between some of the negro laborers of Megs camp and those of Law's camp and aroused the fury of the entire crowd and precipitated a fight which ended in a general battle. The report is that eight men were killed and a large number of others wounded. The place is not accessible by wire and further details cannot be obtained.

WARM WIRELETS.

The local weather bureau at Little Rock, Ark., announces that all danger of a flood had passed in that State, and that there is no apprehension of an overflow of the Arkansas river.

Gen. James A. Dumont, chief of the steamboat inspection service, has resigned, his resignation to take effect April 1. He will be succeeded by George Uhler, president of the marine engineers' association of the United States.

W. H. Vick, aged 63, has been convicted at Mobile, Ala., of the murder of Daniel B. Brown and sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary. Last Summer Vick shot Brown down in the streets here, alleging that his home had been ruined by Brown.

What a Convict Does In Prison.

If I had little work to do in prison, how did I spend the time? At Auburn, where I lived the greater part of my first term, the routine of my life was as follows: After rising in the morning I would sweep out my cell, turn up my bed and blankets and clean up. Then to breakfast; then, if there was no work to do, I would go back to my cell and eat a small portion of opium. Then I would exercise with dumbbells and take a sponge bath with cold water. Next would come a nap till dinner time. After dinner I would read and think in my cell until 3 o'clock, when I would go to the bucket ground or exercise in the yard in the lock step with the others for half an hour; then back to the cell, taking with me bread and a cup of coffee made out of burned bread crust for my supper. The count was made at 6 o'clock to see that all was right for the night. After that I read in my cell as long as the oil lasted.—"Autobiography of a Thief" in Leslie's Monthly.

The Penalty of Progress.

Is it anybody's business to keep count of the number of persons who are killed by accidents from day to day in this country? The number must be enormous, and most of the victims die of modern improvements of one kind and another, says Life. Fatal trolley car accidents are more common and comprehensive this year than ever before; railroads kill and maim about as usual, automobiles do their share, and mines, factories, fires, drowning accidents, gas accidents, explosions and the like contribute with extraordinary steadiness to our mortuary statistics. In the industrial world especially the sacrifice of human life seems prodigious. Human life is cheap, but, cheap as it is, American civilization seems unduly lavish in expending it.

An Attentive Daughter.

He (after marriage)—I don't see why you are not as considerate of my comfort as you used to be of your father's.

She—Why, my dear, I am.

He—How do you make that out? When I come into the house, I have to hunt around for my slippers and everything else I happen to want, but when I used to court you and your father would come in from town you would rush about gathering up his things, wheel his easy chair up to the fire, warm his slippers and get him both a head rest and a foot rest, so that all he had to do was to drop right down and be comfortable.

She—Oh, that was only so he'd go to sleep sooner.

A Delicate Compliment.

To be able to compliment without seeming to flatter is a rare gift, and probably no race of men is endowed with that gift more extensively than the French.

An example of the Frenchman's rare tact in matters of this sort is shown in that sweet little story of a man who had ventured to compliment a white haired old lady upon her beauty.

"Ah," said she, "I fear you flatter me. You call me pretty? Why, I am an old woman, my hair is white, and see here is a wrinkle."

"A wrinkle?" he replied. "Never, madame; that is not a wrinkle. It is but a smile that has drifted from its moorings."

No Further Delay.

A couple had been engaged to be married for about fourteen years, and still the swain had not mustered up courage enough to ask her to name the happy day. The other evening he called in a peculiar frame of mind and asked her to sing something tender and touching. Imagine his surprise when she sat down at the piano and sang, "Darling, I am growing old." There was no further delay.—Scottish American.

A Clerical Conundrum.

Archbishop Whately once asked the question: "Why can a man never starve in the great desert?" and answered it himself as follows: "Because he can eat the sand which is there. But what brought the sandwiches there? Why, Noah sent Ham, and his descendants mustered and bred."

THE "CITY OF FLOWERS."

How a Clever Plan For Beautifying Cleveland Originated.

Several years ago a flower loving citizen of Cleveland, O., organized a club for the ornamentation of the home. Out of this small beginning has grown the Cleveland Home Gardening association, otherwise known as the flower crusade. Children are enlisted in the movement, which is under the management of the association. This organization, says the Indianapolis Journal, distributes seed among school children, examines the gardens exhibited in competition and distributes the prizes, a number of which are offered. The seeds went to 20,000 homes last year. Not only are homes beautified by these flowers, but schoolyards.

School children of Cleveland planted 170,000 packages of flower seed, weighing 667 pounds, in the year 1901. These same children planted 120,000 packages of seed the year before. They are going to plant 200,000 packages this year. The results are so evident that the casual observer notes the change in the smoky city, and it is known throughout the state as the "city of flowers."

Until recently American towns and cities have been given over to negligence, partly because the necessity of looking after the more practical and immediate interests made attention to æsthetics impossible and partly because people did not understand just what their towns lacked or how to remedy the deficiency. Both these conditions are passing. Education is tending in the direction of the artistic, and the rising generation will have much better ideas on the subject than prevail at present. The flower movement is a useful feature of this education.
